Woodstock

Task functionality, while important in design, should not negate the creation of beautiful new furniture with an eye to personal relatability and desire. Without over-sizing or excess closed storage, new office furniture can be more approachable and warmer for more relaxed environments... as we expect and covet in residential furniture.

It is with these notions in mind that Mark Müller created Woodstock™. Simplicity in design belies a complexity in design execution. Solid wood legs have been crafted to meet a metal sleeve and framework in an original, modern approach. Detailing with thin profiles, visible cabinet seams and pull-less drawers were the starting point.

Echoing a time past, Woodstock reflects aspirations of a dynamic new time going forward.

As an Industrial Designer, Mark specializes in producing exceptional designs for the contract furniture market. His work is unique, award winning, and in many cases continues to be in constant production. Underlining each design is the idea that the product must last. The value it creates should be long lived and that each one is produced in an ethical way.

"The goal with Woodstock was to projects a simple, clean and smart environment that is not detached from nature. Materials like wood, natural finishes, and felted surfaces and components offer an organic connection with the natural world." - Mark Müller
